LIFE'S COVER

Members of West's graduating class, comprising this issue of Westward Ho's cover, form a vast symphony of Western life and spirit. Seniors march from the page of West's life to a waiting world, descending from the peak of high school success to begin the climb anew.

All references to Life Magazine in this Annual are purely intentional and are authorized by Life's Editors, decidedly living and friendly to West High School. None of our material is actually reprinted from Life Magazine.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Recorded in the Westward Ho of 1940 are four years of study, work, laughter, heartaches, thrills, and gay rollicking play—four years of joyous, fast-moving school life. In every picture, write-up, and section of the Annual may be found the underlying theme—our life at West.

The day we stepped into these halls as freshmen or sophomores was our class's beginning; and the graduation exercises of 1940, its end. Difficult was the problem of placing every event, study, memory, into a history of one hundred and twelve pages.

To accomplish this was our task, our duty to the class of '40. If we have succeeded, it was our loyalty and hope that carried us over the hard spots.

The impartial reader will find this book merely an Annual, good in many spots, weak in others; but if this Westward Ho recalls true-to-life memories to all Cowboys who have attended West at any time, it has served its purpose, and we are well-rewarded.

CLOSE-UP

MAN OF THE YEAR

DON F. ALLEN

When Don Allen accepted a position at West High, he stepped not only into a teaching profession but into the hearts of every Westerner. Good-looking, collegiate, Mr. Allen is nearly as young as many of his students.

But greater than his work of teaching Art and Clay Modeling, is the man himself; a keen judge of human nature, he displays a sympathetic understanding in every matter.

Foresight and tolerance have prepared Mr. Allen to mold not only clay figures, but youthful destinies that have been placed in his skillful hands.

The class of '40's life at West is ended; Don Allen's is just beginning. In future years, many other students will receive the same helpful attention that seniors of today appreciate so greatly.

It is with great admiration and affection that this Westward Ho is dedicated to Don Allen — teacher and friend.

FACULTY LIFE

Faculty

True friends in need and spirit are the seventy-nine genial pedagogues comprising the West High Faculty. From September to June, teachers alternately become fun-loving pals, helpful advisers, and stern taskmasters to the two thousand students daily passing in review before them.

Already outstanding in personnel and efficiency, faculty members have the added distinction of being titled, by visiting educators, "one of the best-informed teachers' groups in the United States."

An annual affair, the senior picnic is arranged and financed by faculty members. All seniors are treated to an afternoon of gaiety, topped by an informal meal served in the lunchroom. Teachers participate in novel entertainments for graduating classmen.

Not uncommon to Westerners is the sight of students and teachers gathered around a conference table working in close harmony through the new spirit of teacher-student cooperation.

All Pals Together (Finance Committee)

Principal

The record of Sam R. Hill, West's Principal, is remarkable. He has been a teacher or a principal of every high school in Denver except North High. Receiving his A.B. degree from the University of Denver in 1913, he began teaching immediately at Savery, Wyoming; three years later he specialized in commercial subjects at South, also coaching baseball and basketball there.

Assistant Principal of Grant Jr. High in 1922, he received his M.A. degree from Columbia in 1923. This leader became Principal of Manual in 1928, and in 1937 brought a new regime to West as the Cowboys' First Citizen.

Decidedly popular, Mr. Hill is appreciated for his personal interest in every pupil and teacher. The school has accepted his challenge for more sincere self-analysis and student-government. All in all, pupils feel that he symbolizes the new life which he brought to West three years ago. That was the same time at which the present Senior Class first began to realize its size and vigor. For both, his policies and the graduating class, "Life Begins with '40."

Private Lives

HILDEGARD S. SWEET
Dean of Girls

Quiet and unassuming, West's Dean of Girls, Hildegard S. Sweet, is one of the school's busiest members. Born in the western region of Canada, she spent most of her childhood there, later receiving a Master's Degree from Columbia University. Her teaching began in Toledo schools. An instructor of German before the war, she taught physiology until the family moved westward. In 1912, Mrs. Sweet had the pleasure of a trip to Europe.

Coupled with a keen interest in educational work, West's Dean of Girls has developed exceptional qualities of sympathy and insight which enable her to be a guiding light in the lives of many girls.

The strength and simplicity of a well-ordered life are exemplified in her office.

Assistant Principal

Not unfamiliar to West students was personable Howard L. Johnson when he assumed duties here as Assistant Principal in September, 1939. Previously head football coach at South, he proved a popular leader in both athletics and school life.

Attending Hamline University in St. Paul, Johnson later received his degree from the University of Nebraska. Prior to coming to West, he assisted in the Health Education Department of the Denver Public Schools.

To those who know his traits of dependability, optimism and initiative, there is no surprise in the fact that he is ably filling his present position at West. It is easy to understand that tall, stalwart Johnson's hobby is athletics.

CLASS LIFE

Senior Class

Far different from the timid band of freshmen who four years ago marched through West's portals for the first time, are the more than four hundred graduating seniors who this year bid goodbye to the "Ranch of Friendliness".

Scholastic success was reached by some, partly attained by others. Leaders were quickly singled out by vote and popular acclaim. But whether or not fame came to every member of the class of '40, some measure of the true friendliness and genuine democracy of the Cowboy school was instilled in each one.

With the new life at West, changes were many and varied for 40'ers: noon dancing, longer lunch hours, greater schoolroom freedom came to West. These entailed increased responsibility but provided far-reaching opportunity to students abiding by its demands.

"The road to success is a rocky one." No exception is the path to high school democracy, which is alternately paved with praise and criticism. Through its entire journey, '40 did its share to make West a finer school. Having reached this destination, the class looks back with few regrets and much satisfaction at its lasting achievements.

"Such big deeds for such a little girl," might well be applied to Virginia Nikkel, better known as "Bitsy." Assuming second semester duties as Head Girl, Virginia rose fast in the school's favor. Leadership, combined with a pleasing personality, formed the basis of "Bitsy's" popularity.

JOHN FURNEAU
Head Boy, Second Semester

Capable is well-liked John Furneau, Cowboy Head Boy for the second half-year. Modesty and a dynamic personality combined to make John one of the most popular and well-known students in West. Although high in scholastic standing and other enviable records, he whole-heartedly participated in a great many activities.

Junior Class

Five hundred strong, alert and ready members of the Class of '41 await only the graduation of the seniors to assume command of the school. Vitality, pep, and a strong class spirit marked their progress through three years as underclassmen; already they have gained considerable prominence in both class and social activities.

Sophomores comprise the largest class in school. Many have spent their freshman year at West; others are incoming students from surrounding junior highs.

Activities of the tenth grade prove that this huge organization has energy and brains. In the remaining years, the class of 1942 will demonstrate even more of its now budding leadership.

Still somewhat bewildered, but fast learning to appreciate their lot, the freshmen give promise of being among the best to enter West.

Hailing from almost every junior high in the city, the yearlings are readily becoming accustomed to the freedom and self-reliance of the new life at West, to prove themselves a spirited group winning approval of teachers and upper classmen alike.

Sports

From the Orange and Black-togged gridders to the scantily garbed tracksters, West athletes moved forward in the seasons of 1939-40 to once again regain a good measure of the glory that has been West's in past years. Strong were the squads that entered in league competition, but powerful too were their opponents; so no championships graced the Puncher parade at the time of the Annual's printing. However, second places in football, golf, and tennis; and third places in basketball and wrestling were the enviable records placed in the scorers' books.

Resignation in the Cowboys' coaching staff caused a general shifting of the department. Earl Paul, baseball manager, accepted a position at Horace Mann Junior High; "Tub" Morris quit football duties and replaced Paul as baseball coach; Elbert Chapman relinquished track responsibilities in favor of sophomore baseball. Frank Mielenz and Harvey Riddle were appointed to fill the vacancies.

FOOTBALL

West, 34 — North, 7

Undismayed by three disasterous seasons, Orange and Black Footballers unveiled the 1939 edition of their grid machine with an impressive 34-7 thumping of North. Elmer Moore's two touchdowns paced the Punchers' victory.

West, 0 — East, 18

Blazing a championship trail of power and speed, East's white shirted warriors trampled West's less powerful Cowboys into the sands of defeat 18-0. Game though tired, the Orange and Black struggled resolutely against the inevitable verdict until the final gun stilled even faint hopes of victory.

West, 0 — South, 20

It was a dismal day for West rooters, as in their third start the Cowpokes were overpowered by a strong South eleven, 20-0. Havens' 46-yard ramble into pay dirt in the last minute of the first half was the straw that broke the Cowboys' defensive back and turned a potential battle into a Rebel victory march.

West, 25 — Manual, 0

Their ardor undampened by a steady drizzle, Orange and Black footballers hit the victory trail against Manual's Bricklayers—slipping, sliding, and splashing to a 25-0 triumph. From the opening gun, it was a West field day as the Cowboys punched over score after score with machine-like precision. When the points were tallied, West's bunting rode triumphantly in the wind-driven rain as the Cowboys continued their winning streak.

West, 20 — Manual, 0

Cowboy offensive guns found consistent range, bombing Manual defenses with telling effect and registering West's third triumph 20-0. Every Puncher functioned as a smooth cog in a mighty machine.

West, 6 — East, 31

With summerlike weather holding full sway, East's Cherubs smashed a 31-6 win over a valiant band of West Cowboys. The score told only half the story, as the Morrismen out-fought and out-scrapped the favored Angels only to fall before a belated second-half rush. Fairchild and Petersen combined forces to form an unbeatable duo.

West, 27 — South, 20

A will to win for their silver-haired mentor, furnished a win-bound Orange and Black band with a thrilling 27-20 victory over South's bewildered Rebels. Because of a touching "half-time" tribute to retiring Newton C. "Tub" Morris, who for a quarter century has guided West's football destinies, enthusiasm welded the Cowboys into an unbeatable powerhouse, determined to repay in a small way the helpful training "Tub" had given them. Overcoming a 14-0 deficit early in the third period, Baker, Snyder, Little, and Morgan tore off repeated gains, crashing over four touchdowns and three extra points in a spectacular rally.

West, 7 — North, 0

Meeting a much improved North team, after the peak of the South football contest, a determined and game Cowboy eleven eked out a 7-0 decision over a battered Viking squad that never once was allowed to advance into Western territory. It was Bill Snyder who provided the winning margin, as he plunged off guard from the two-yard line with less than a minute to play. It was West's fifth win against three losses, and the Punchers finished second in the league.

BASKETBALL

Represented in the cage race of '40 by a team haunted with the spectre of hard luck, West won a trio of games and lost five in a topsy-turvy league that found every team in the running throughout the season. The Punchers were potent in their encounters, though unable to hit baskets when the chips were down.

Heartbreakingly close were four of the defeats suffered by the Westerners, as they were beaten three times by not more than five points, twice by only two. In the season opener, the plucky Cowboys fell before a North onslaught 32-27; then East's championship Angels nosed out the Westerners 33-29. In the third contest, South took full measure in winning from a thoroughly tired, discouraged West quintet 34-13.

Suddenly finding their needed power, the cagers arose to hit the comeback path against Manual 35-25, and the North's Viks 28-17. Then as West rooters began to pray fervently for a victory, an inspired Cowboy team fought East's favorites to a standstill, only to lose 35-33 on an overtime basket that came after "Babe" Lind coolly dropped in two free throws to tie the score in the regular game 33-33, with less than five seconds to play.

Defeated but never quitting, the Punchers faced South the next Friday, and once again hard luck ruled as the Rebels edged through with a two-point victory, 31-29.

Losses seemed merely to spur the Westerners on as they knocked a favored Manual squad from a possible state tourney place, 41-28. It was West all the way until Lind, the spark of the team, incurred an injury during the third quarter and was compelled to leave the game.

Lettermen were Charles "Babe" Lind, John Hunter, Ray "Turk" Anderson, Harry Harris, Lou Peterson, Bill Moriarity, and Bill Snyder.

BASEBALL

Cheers for a second-place '39 baseball team changed to disappointed murmurs at the announcement that Earl Paul, popular Cowboy coach, would resign his position at West for an Assistant Principal's berth at Horace Mann.

A subsequent ray of hope was the fact that N. C. "Tub" Morris would return from retirement to again begin baseball duties.

It was a strong nine that Coach Paul led to within one game of North's champion Vikings. After lacing the Norsemen twice, the Punchers, proving unable to fathom South, were knocked from a championship tie with North by the Rebs.

Nominations for all-city included Dick Maes, Don Girtin, Bill Moriarity, and Sid Milzer. Lettermen were Don Girtin, Roy Allen, Bill Snyder, Lee Brady, Bill Moriarity, Sid Milzer, Dick Maes, Cliff Olin, Glenn Howard, Harold Parker, Tom Neville, and Joe Perry.

The '40 season provided a well-balanced lineup, lacking only pitchers experienced in league play.

Lettermen who again wore Cowboy uniforms were Allen, Howard, Neville, Milzer, Brady, Moriarity, and Perry.

CHEERLEADERS

Always boosting are the four cheerleaders who lead West rooters in vocally expressing their school spirit.

Every Cowboy has felt a sudden thrill, when a discouraged beaten squad has been transformed into a fighting team by a rousing West yell.

The voices behind the megaphones are those of Bob Ross, Ray Weaverling, Bill Tyson, and Jack McAuley who form a spirited, alert quartet.

Cheerleaders are active between seasons through the formation of a Rooters' Club under the direction of Mrs. Ella Walker Snyder.

MANAGERS

Of invaluable service to West and its teams, are the boys who yearly volunteer for the positions of managers. Devoting as much time to their work as members of the various squads, they ask no reward other than the satisfaction of seeing a well-equipped aggregation representing West on the athletic fields of high school competition.

Cliff Schmidt, Bill Wright, and Dick Switzer acted as football managers. Bob Schwindt and Bill Becker took charge of basketball. Herman Schmachtenberger and Bill Becker served as manager of baseball and Bernard Krause of wrestling.

GOLF

Heralded by the unbeaten, all-city duo of Babe Lind and Don Girtin, golfers proved their ability by finishing in a second place tie with the South Rebels.

Consistently active were the team play and spirit shown by the mashie wielders as they overcame many handicaps to triumph for the Orange and Black.

Practice and confidence were the cogs in the winning machine that lost only to East, 3-1. Upset were the Punchers' hopes for a championship. Manual fell 4-0 to the Westerners, and North was defeated 3-1.

Lettermen who helped carry the Cowboy banners were Babe Lind, Don Girtin, Bill Graham, Ivan Baker, Harry Atkins, Ed Krevas, and Don Reckseen.

WRESTLING

The referee crouched tensely, trying to watch the lightning-fast movements of the boys on the mat before him. Suddenly, one wrestler was forced to yield, then a paid of shoulders were pinned against the canvas as the referee raised a sweating wrestler's arm in token of victory.

Fighting for every match, West grapplers finished third in the league. After dropping their first two meets to North and East, undaunted Orange and Black matmen came roaring back to nose out South and drub Manual, garnering a .500 percentage of wins.

Six points in the Greeley meet climaxed the season as Morgan, Little, and Moore finished high in state-wide competition.

TRACK

Under new leadership, West tracksters again hit the cinders, striving for victories and new records. Harvey Riddle replaced veteran "Drag" Chapman, track mentor for eight seasons, and started at once to whip thin-clad hopefuls into a seasoned squad.

With better prospects than any since the banner team of 1935, Orange and Black runners did their share to boost West's none-too-imposing track record, which lists but a single championship. Success of Cowboy individual stars in college competition, however, furnished ample proof of the efficiency of West's coaches.

TENNIS

Rackets flashing, tennis balls hopping unpredictably, West's 1939 tennis squad battled against the other high school teams. When the dust of court conflict cleared away, the Cowboys were firmly entrenched in the league's second position.

Unparalleled in twenty-three years of West tennis history, were the sixteen victories and eight defeats registered by the netters. It was the first Cowboy club rising to second place during that time. The Punchers tied North 3-3, dropped a hard fought match to a formidable East octet 2-4, and downed South and Manual by the respective scores of 4-2 and 6-0.

Jack Cagle and Gordon Parker were undefeated. Lettermen were Harry Harris, Don Keeney, Jack Cagle, Gordon Parker, Sam Lusky, George Graber, Norman Presse, and George Harris.

SWIMMING

Determined were the squad members that swam and dived their way into league competition. They proved too weak, however, for the rest of the teams, and were defeated in every meet except one—when they turned back the Manual Bricklayers.

Outstanding for the West tankers was Jack Spaar, who gained most of the team's points. He was all-city in the 50-yard free style. Other lettermen were Henry Potter and Ray Riley.

SOPHOMORE SPORTS

Sophomore gridders, under the coaching of Wilford Woody, won an undefeated and untied championship. As is the custom of West teams, the Sophs were a superior aggregation that furnished trouble to every opposing team. They gave promise of excellent varsity material.

Harvey Riddle's basketeers, however, were too inexperienced and finished low in the league after putting up a good fight and showing improvement with every game.

GIRLS WHO HAVE EARNED BIG "D's"

Miss Ruth Dougherty

Athletic-minded West girls may participate actively in many intramural sports, including speedball, volleyball, basketball, and a number of minor games.

Girls who are members of teams are awarded a given number of points for each game won or lost. The point system is easily operated: players receive 100 points for every major they enter, and 50 points for each of the minors participated in.

For the first 100 points, a small felt "D" is awarded; then a chevron for each additional 100 points. Girls are eligible for a large felt "D" if they have been at West three years and have received 750 points, or for four years and possess 1000 points.

Those who exceed the 1000-mark and go beyond for a margin of 250 more points are awarded a small gold "D" When even more merits are earned, a black felt star is added for each 100 points.

Any girl may join in these activities, the only requirement being a genuine liking for the sports, and spare time for practice and competition.

The method of staff work is simple. Page editors take direct charge of incoming stories under the supervision of the Editor chosen by Sponsor Lorena Hocking. Editor of the fall semester of '39 was Sam Lusky; of the second semester, Harold Johnson.

The record of Rodeo progress is admirable. Two years ago a paper of tabloid size, diligent staff work has enlarged West's newspaper to its present status. Despite a limited budget, the Rodeo staff publishes a paper conceded to be a true measure of West spirit.

R. O. T. C.

Trim in their khaki and blue uniforms, more than two hundred members of West's Reserve Officers Training Corps form a recognized and respected school organization. Always active, cadets compete in drill and inspection yearly against other high school units, both as a group and in individual maneuvers. Also important, the rifle team was winner of the Hearst Trophy in national competition in 1939. The result of these matches is highly-trained sharpshooters familiar with the corps' traditions.

The practical purpose of the unit is to equip young men to be reserve officers in the army; the deeper motive is to teach youth to be self-reliant. Actual military work is classroom instruction, shooting drills, and two weeks of summer camp with the regular army.

Social activities include an annual city-wide ball for R. O. T. C. members, and a picnic at an amusement park.

SCHOOL LIFE

Life Reviews a Premiere

"SEVEN SISTERS"

"STAGE DOOR"

First Nighters hurry down the aisles to their seats, lights are dimmed, a hush comes over the audience, and the curtain rises on the first act of the play.

Prompters lean tensely forward to catch stray miscues. The director watches nervously, hoping for the best and expecting the worst. Alert stagehands stand nearby, ready for last-minute emergencies, while scene after scene passes in review.

Finally, the curtain falls for the last time. A wave of applause sweeps through the audience, and another West production has become history.

Due in no small share to the tireless efforts of director, Lois Griffey, is the already-long record of footlight successes.

Life Goes to a

Life, together with Doris Wooster and Henry Potter, attended the colorful, romantic pageant of West's 1940 S. O. S. dance which this year soared to new heights as colorful decorative schemes carried out the theme of a Sweetheart Dance.

Soft lights, flickering shadows, gay laughter, and unique settings wove a perfect pattern against the melodious background of Stan Koskoff's rhythms.

Chosen as Sweetheart of the dance was Virginia Carlisle, with attendants Sylvia Houghton, Lois Myers, Virginia Nikkel, Mickey Jo Lewis, Doris Potratz, and Opal Lewis. The success of the dance was due to the tireless efforts of Eleanor Lewis, President of the S. O. S. Club.

IT'S A DATE—I'll be down to get you in a go-cart, Doris—You'd better be ready about half past eight.

HEARTS AND FLOWERS—The fragrance of tonight's gardenias will remain in my bouquet of memories.

BEST BIB AND TUCKER—Lovely! Just the way you look tonight.

SWING AND SWAY—I'm in a dancing mood.

Sweetheart Dance

AFTER THE DANCE IS OVER—Goodnight, Sweetheart, 'Til we meet tomorrow.

V KRAUSE

For graduating Seniors, life at West is completed. As we leave our school for the last time, memories of hours joyfully spent come vividly to mind.

To those who helped capture at least a portion of the spirit, color, and joys of high school between the covers of this Westward Ho, the Annual Board expresses sincere appreciation.

Contributions of both time and effort were forthcoming from Clifford Mohr, hard working Annual sponsor; James Aandahl and his Annual sales crew; Emily Marrs, supervisor of write-ups; S. R. Taylor, photography adviser; Don Allen, faculty art director. Paul Yhvh designed the art pages.

To all others who in some capacity aided its work, Westward Ho offers hearty thanks.

Dearest Agnes,
To my best pal may we have some more good times in the future. Remember the queer way in which we became friends? Here's hoping to see you at D.U. next year. It has really been swell knowing
you. Never forget me.
